Forecast For Highland & Eilean Siar
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 1600 on Wednesday 07 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Milder and windy on Thursday with spells of rain.

This Evening and Tonight:
Wintry showers dying out then dry for a time. Outbreaks rain, preceded by snow on high ground, will spread east during the evening. Southwesterly winds strengthening overnight, touching gale across the Western Isles later. Minimum temperature 1 deg C (34 deg F).

Thursday:
Cloudy with outbreaks of rain, heavy at times especially across western areas. Brightening up in the afternoon with blustery showers. Strong to gale force westerly winds. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Strong winds overnight into Friday will bring back cold conditions with blustery snow showers on Friday and Saturday, but winds easing on Saturday. Drier and brighter on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.